

ARC Open Lunch Lecture Series

In Fall 2011, the Arts Research Center will sponsor a series of free lunchtime lectures on art and social practice. All talks will take place from noon to 1pm in 7415 Dwinelle Hall on the UC Berkeley campus. Limited seating is available on a first-come, first-served basis, and brown bag lunches are welcome. The schedule of speakers is as follows:

September 6: Caden Manson, co-founder and Artistic Director of the Big Art Group performance company will speak in conversation with ARC-affiliated faculty member Abigail de Kosnik (Theater, Dance & Performance Studies and New Media) and ARC Director Shannon Jackson (Theater, Dance & Performance Studies and Rhetoric).

October 25: Rudolf Frieling, curator of media arts at SFMOMA, will speak in conversation with ARC-affiliated faculty members Julia Bryan-Wilson (History of Art) and Shannon Jackson.

POSTPONED (formerly November 15): Artist and writer Ted Purves, founder of the graduate program in Social Practice at the California College of Arts, will speak in conversation with ARC-affiliated faculty members Anne Walsh (Art Practice) and Shannon Jackson.

This event is made possible in part by support from the UC Institute for Research in the Arts and the Townsend Center for the Humanities.
